Bel - tane has fall - en, Fair Folk, hear me true.
 I bore a babe and he filled me with joy.
 Once he was laugh - ing and call - ing to me.
 Wail - ing or si - lent, but nev - er he talks.
 Coax though I might, he will not meet my eye.
 Need you a man - child who's clev - er and kind?
 Naught say you, Fair Folk? Your mean - ing is plain.
 Treat my son well, and I'll make you a vow.

Jewel I held at my breast.
 Jewel I held at my breast.
 Jewel I held at my breast.
 Jewel I held at my breast.
 Jewel I held at my breast.
 Jewel I held at my breast.
 Jewel I held at my breast.

Hith - er from Elf - Hame I
 One night your peo - ple made
 In our house now sits his Beats at his head as he
 I house your change - ling. I
 Some oth - er ser - vant I
 He's et your food, I'll not I'll love this change - ling as beck - on to you. O how I weep with-out rest.

 off with my boy. O how I weep with-out rest.
 shape, but not he. O how I weep with-out rest.
 thrash - es and rocks. O how I weep with-out rest.
 beg of you, why? O how I weep with-out rest.
 know you could find. O how I weep with-out rest.
